WASHINGTON LETTER.

[From Our Regular Correspondent.]

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 7, 1894.

Well, Coxe's army has been in Wash ington a week. They are camped in a spot that physicians declare to be dangerous to health and life, and from which Coxe has removed his horses;but none of the five hundred odd men have died, although some of them have had to be sent to the hospital. The re ceipts from admissions to the camp—twenty-five cents is charged—and from individual contributions have so far been sufficient to feed the men, but as both have begun to fall off and the number of men in camp is constantly in creasing, this condition of affairs may not last much longer. Large accessions to the army are expected this week.There has not been the slightest dis turbance between the police and the army since the arrest of Coxe, Browne, and Jones for attempting to speak on the Capitol steps. The police court has been crowded for three days to hear their trial, and they have had as coun sel, besides local lawyers, Senator Allen, and Representatives Pence, of Colorado; Hudson, of Kansas; Sibley, of Pa.; Haines, of Nebraska; and Van Vorhis, of New York.The Democrats promise that all of the proposed amendments to the tariff bill shall be made public this week, and claim that they have forty-three votes—a majority—pledged to the amended bill, but this claim is disputed, as it is now said the Louisiana Senators will be compelled by the Legislature that meets on the 15th inst. to take their choice between refusing to vote for the tariff bill, unless a duty of two cents a pound is put upon sugar, or being sup planted by two men who will do as re quired. Both of these Senators were appointed by the Governor to fill un expired terms; both wish to succeed them selves, and the Legislature will decide.
It is another uncertainty added to those already existing.The House Committee on Railways and Canals was so favorably impressed with the project of building a canal be tween the Ohio River and Lake Erie that it ordered a favorable report on the bill appropriating $10,000 for a preliminary survey of the proposed route. Erie, N. Y., and Pittsburgh, Pa., are to be the terminals of the canal.It doesn't take much to make a Sen ator or Representative laugh, particu larly when Congress is in session. There fore, when Dr. McCandless of Pittsburg sent to Senator Quay, by a page, a neatly bound book bearing in big gold letters the title "What Congress Has Done," no one who saw the transaction was surprised to see it.Quay laughed. Later he sent the book to Vice-President Stevenson, who also laughed, and who in turn sent the book to Senator Peffer.
The book kept on until it had made the round of the Senate chamber and every body had laughed at it, yet it contained no printed joke; in fact, it contained nothing except blank leaves, thus show ing that its title was aptly chosen.The House Committee on Post-roads and Post-roads has heard arguments in favor of the bills now before that com mittee providing for the government ownership and control of all telegraph lines, by A. L. Randall, Chairman of the International Typographical Com mittee; Samuel Gompers, President of the American Federation of Labor; Gardner G. Hubbard, of Washington; S. H. Bell, Secretary of the International Typographical Union; and Representa tive Blair, of N. H. The committee has taken no formal action, but the impres sion exists that a majority of its mem bers are opposed to the idea embraced in these bills.The first Congressional pay-day since it was decided to enforce the old law compelling a member to certify the num ber of days he was absent during the month passed, and providing that he shall be docked for every day of absence without leave and not caused by sick ness, demonstrated several things: First, and probably most important, that there are members of the House who deliberately reported themselves present when they were not and did not stay away on account of sickness, in order to escape having their pay docked; second, that the law is very unpopular with members whose absenteeism has been marked; third, that an attempt is to be made to show that the law is no longer in force.The report of the Sub-Committee of the House Judiciary Committee that in vestigated the notorious strike orders issued by Judge Jenkins is a curious document, and reflects no great credit upon those who signed it. After say ing that the orders were "a gross abuse of the power of the court," they were sup ported by neither reason nor authority; were beyond the jurisdiction of the judge,and were therefore void. It naïvely adds that the judge is exonerated from any corrupt intention. If the quota tion above is correct, the judge deserves impeachment either for corruptness or for incompetency. The report reads like an attempt to straddle; to please the labor organizations by denouncing the strike orders, and the friends of the judge by exonerating him.L. A. W. Affairs.

MENTAL IMAGES.

Material Pictures Contemporaneous With Thought Imprinted Upon the Brain."A man conversing in earnest," says Emerson in his essay on "Nature," "if he watch his intellectual processes, will find that a material image, more or less luminous, arises in his mind contemporane ously with every thought, which furnishes the vestment of the thought."This power of forming mental images appears to vary in strength among indi viduals to a considerable degree. Natu rally we should expect to find it power ful in poets and artists. Charles Dick ens has himself told us that he actually "saw" his creations as he wrote, and M.
Taine mentions a painter who only look ed at an object while he sketched its outline and was able to fill in the colors from the image of it in his mind.On the other hand, there are people of equal intelligence who, being unable to see such mental images themselves, have doubted their existence, and Mr. Fran cis Galton has shown that habits of ab stract thought, such as men of science and philosophers indulge in, are apt to weaken the capacity of forming mental pictures.Mr. Kirkpatrick of Winona, Minn., an experimental psychologist, has made a series of observations on this phenom enon with the help of his classes. The scholars were asked to write down just what came into their minds when they said familiar words, such as "book," "tree," "church," were called out, and the answers were carefully investigated.He found that the majority of the stu dents formed distinct images of the ob jects corresponding to the words, and the rest formed indistinct images, with a few exceptions, who seem to have in dulged in philosophical abstractions.The word "book" for example, called up visions of a Bible, a dictionary, a novel, in all but a few scholars, who thought of "food for the mind" or "the thoughts of some person." The word "tree" was represented by some kind of tree, more especially the illustrations of trees which George Washington out down. The word "church" usually evoked a picture of some church in the vicinity, but some of the hearers thought of a "religious organization." It is ev ident from his results that most people are "visualizers" in thinking, while a few are "nonvisualizers." The tenden cy to form distinct images was very conspicuous among the female students, and in both sexes it reaches an abnor mal development about the ages of 14 and 15, or during the period of adoles cence, which, it has been otherwise ob served, is also one of exceptional good health and rapid growth. The tendency is further checked or fostered by the occupations in life.—Cassell's Magazine.The Clock Winding Snake.
In Persia there is a kind of snake which is known to the natives as the clock winding snake. It derives its name from a peculiar buzzing noise which it makes that resembles the wind ing of a clock. These snakes are per fectly harmless and frequently glide in and out of the houses, no attention be ing paid to them by the natives. Dur ing a visit there several years ago I was attracted one morning by an un usual twittering of birds, and on looking up saw about 20 sparrows on the top of a wall, all jumping about in an ex cited manner.At first I was at a loss to understand the cause of such a commotion, but presently I heard the peculiar buzzing of the clock winding snake and in a minute perceived the reptile crawling along the wall, making directly for the birds, which appeared to be fascinated and made no attempt to fly away. The snake glided in among the birds, and choosing one to his liking deliberately seized it in his mouth and swallowed it. I picked up a stick, and after kill ing the snake cut him open and extrac ted the sparrow. After about 10 min utes' exposure to the sun the bird got up, and in a few minutes more flew away apparently unhurt.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.Roseberry's Foresight.
The foremost Lord Roseberry display ed in arranging his matrimonial plans is illustrated in the following anecdote: Shortly after he had returned from his continental tour he was one of a house party at Mentmore, a lordly pleasure house which Baron Meyer Rothschild had built for himself in Buckingham shire. One evening, at dinner, the con versation turned on the exquisite decora tions of the room. Lord Roseberry's observation to his next neighbor, by way of epilogue to the conversation, was, "Yes, this place would suit me ex cellently." When, seven years later, he had married the daughter of the house and was the owner of Mentmore, his friend, happening to meet him, remind ed him of this observation. Lord Rose berry replied with assumed gravity, but with a telltale twinkle in his eye, "Well, of course you know that the un expected always happens."—San Fran cisco Argonaut.A Philanthropist.
"What is the subject of your lecture?" inquired the editor of a local paper.
"The Causes of Hard Times and How to Cure Them," replied the gifted or ator, "and as the object of the lecture is in its very nature purely philan thropic I will ask you to be generous in the matter of free notices. By the way," he added hurriedly, "I forgot to fill a blank in this advertisement. I will at tend to it now."And he took the copy and filled the blank after the words, "Price of admis sion," by inserting the simple charac ters, "$1."—Chicago Tribune.Increase of Suicides in Austria.
The increase in the number of suicides in Austria, which is stated to have been very marked in the sixties and seventies, fell off in the 10 years 1880-90. Since the latter date, however, it has again become noticeable. In 1891 the number of suicides was 873, in the following year it was 903, and last year it reached 1,005.—London Times.
